

Best Later Life Planning Company 2024 - Glasgow

Planning for later on in life is not something that many of us think about, and it usually gets pushed to the back of the mind until the last minute. Offering its clients the opportunity to get things sorted effectively and efficiently well ahead of time, the team at McAllisters Later Life Planning Limited are wholly passionate about making sure that a client's hard work directly benefits their family, a promise it delivers on by providing products and services that offer peace of mind and excellent value.

With McAllisters, clients are afforded the opportunity to carry on living their life to the fullest, sound in the knowledge that both they and their loved ones are protected as they enter life's later stages. This fully independent family-run business is an expert in every element of later life planning, and this expertise is blended with a service that is professional and honest. As a result, clients are afforded all of the necessary information that they need to make well-informed decisions about their future in the years to come.

The team at McAllisters know that these decisions are not easy, and that the market is flooded with a wealth of possible choices that can make knowing where to turn feel impossible. It is for this reason that McAllisters will handle everything. Across this process, the team are also on hand to offer their knowledge and unbiased advice, which spans wills, power of attorney, property protection trust, and family trusts.

Be it a simple will or power of attorney, or something more complex, McAllisters' due diligence and strict attention to detail will be on full display at every turn, with the customer always remaining at the heart of everything that it does. This all begins with a free no obligation consultation in a client's own home at a time that suits them, something that extends across all of the company's services.

"We take the time to listen, and we provide open and honest advice on all aspects of later life planning, enabling you to make the best decisions for you."

Writing a will is a vital aspect of later life planning, as this is the only way to ensure that all material and financial assets will be distributed to the people for which they are intended. This sounds straightforward, but the company estimates that as many as 60% of people living in the UK do not have a valid will. Luckily, when it comes to writing wills, the distinction of McAllisters is immediately apparent thanks to its membership with the Institute of Professional Willwriters (IPW), with the team adhering to the institute's strict conduct code.

There is never a bad time to draft a will, but it is especially important to create one or update a current one if an individual has recently had children; got married, separated, or divorced; or received a significant sum of money or any other assets as part of an inheritance. Doing so with McAllisters makes this process as easy as possible.

Power of attorney services are available for both individuals and couples alike. Nobody knows what the future has in store, and many people wrongly assume that their spouse, children, or parents will be able to make their decisions for them in the event that they cannot. This is not the case, and having no power of attorney in place can result in lengthy court battles concerning the likes of access to bank accounts and treatment options.

For expert help throughout these processes and any additional aspects of later life planning, McAllisters Later Life Planning Limited is the company of choice to get things done right first time. On the back of this unflinching client commitment, the business is more than deserving of being named as the Best Later Life Planning Company 2024 — Glasgow.
